CONVENTION ITSELF MAY DRAW THE PRECINCT LINES

Guthrie, Okla., April 11.—The court order in the injunction case against the enforcement of the constitutional convention's election ordinance and the appointment of a supreme election board decided by Chief Justice Buford here Monday, will not be made until Saturday, when the temporary restraining order asked for becomes effective.

The court's written opinion contains about 3,000 words, and deals specifically with the creation of a supreme election board and the matter of county divisions. In decreeing that the convention had power to change lines of Old Oklahoma counties, the same being identical to the formation of a state government, the convention representatives feel it has scored a victory.

In holding that the election laws of Oklahoma Territory were extended over Indian Territory (and to the new counties) by the enabling act for the purposes of the first election, the expense of this election is checked up to the Territory of Oklahoma to pay. The Oklahoma election law reads:

The Territorial Board of Election Commissioners shall from time to time certify to the auditor of the territory the necessary expense of preparing and distributing of ballots and stamps, and the auditor shall audit and issue his warrants for the same, which shall be paid out of any funds in the territorial treasury not otherwise appropriated."

Under the decision the constitution has ample authority to supply the election machinery in the newly created counties of Indian Territory, as well as in the new counties of Oklahoma. In all probability, upon convening next week, the convention will, by ordinance divide the new counties into municipal townships and three commissioner districts. The municipal township bears the same relation as a justice of the peace precinct. The convention's original plan was for the supreme election board created by the ordinance to appoint county election boards, but as the court expressed a doubt as to the legality of such appointment delegated to other authority, the convention, in remodeling the election ordinance will probably name such boards, two members to be Democratic and one Republican. These boards will divide the counties into election boards already existing in the old Oklahoma counties under the decision remain undisturbed. There are forty-nine new counties in the state.

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Barton has announced his appointment of members of the City Council's several standing committees. The personnel of these committees is printed below. It would be well for citizens to preserve a copy to refer to; so that often when having business with the council they can save time and trouble by going directly to the chairman of the proper committee.

The committees are composed as follows.

Cemetery, Sanitary and City Park.—J. T. Conn chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Sutton.

Finance.—W. C. Lee chairman, T. J. Chambliss and M. D. Timberlake.

Fire.—R. T. Kerr chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Conn.

Lights.—J. T. Sutton chairman, R. T. Kerr and J. T. Conn.

Ordinance.—T. J. Chambliss chairman, M. D. Timberlake and W. C. Lee. Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks.—M. D. Timberlake chairman, J. T. Sutton and A. J. Deaton.

Water.—W. H. Markham chairman, A. J. Deaton and W. C. Lee.

Police, Enforcement of Ordinances and Impeachment.—A. J. Deaton chairman, M. D. Timberlake and T. J. Chambliss.

The committee last named is a newly created one, whose duty, as indicated, is to exercise a supervision over the enforcement of the city's laws and to prefer charges against any official guilty of neglect of duty or malfeasance or misfeasance in office. The city attorney is made a member of this committee, as he is of the ordinance committee.

WEAVER AT ARDMORE BOOSTS THE CONVENTION

Carlton Weaver of Ada, delegate to the constitutional convention, was in the city yesterday and upon being interrogated by a Democrat reporter in regard to the ratification of the convention said:

"When the people of Oklahoma read the constitution in its entirety it will need no advocate. That constitution embodied every principle that the masses require and demanded, and when the vote is taken it will be found to be practically unanimous in its favor. There are a few sore heads that are opposed to it in the Republican ranks, (and be it said to the credit of the Republican party they are mighty few) from the simple reason that it is a Democratic document written by Democrats.

Had the Republicans been in the majority they would have swallowed anything that might have been written without a protest. The Republicans themselves regard the Asp constitution as a joke, and when the time comes for a vote on the present constitution as written, you will find the real influential Republicans, with a few exceptions, heartily in favor of adopting it in its entirety.

"They accuse us of breaking faith with our constituents by leaving out the 'Jim Crow' clause without fully understanding the situation, or the pressure that was brought to bear for its rejection from the constitution. That will be adjusted to the entire satisfaction of the whole state at the first session of the legislature."

Mr. Weaver was non-committal in regard to state politics, and being an old newspaper man himself, the reporter refrained from pressing the subject. He said, however, that there would be less than one hundred votes polled against the adoption of the constitution in Pontotoc county.—Ardmore Democrat.

"Pneumonia's Deadly Work" had so seriously affected my right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbors' prediction—consumption—seemed inevitable, until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only REAL cough cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs." When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat troubles with New Discovery, the REAL CURE. Guaranteed by J. M. Ramsey, druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Davidson for Justice.

George Davidson announces, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, for justice of the peace for the municipal township that shall include Ada.

Mr. Davidson is a native of the Old Dominion, was reared in Arkansas, and six years ago he moved to the Territory. His good judgment is shown by his coming straight to Ada where he engaged for several years in the mechanic's trade. Latterly he has conducted a second hand and repairing establishment on South Broadway.

A man of modesty and reserve, he dislikes to talk of himself; but there are a number of Ada's leading citizens who knew Mr. Davidson away back in Arkansas, and they will vouch for him strong. However, he scarcely needs that, for he is well known and esteemed in Ada. A Democrat, he is one of the staunch simon pure type.

Mr. Davidson is not without experience in public affairs. Besides, he has a wide experience with men and business matters, has deep convictions about what is just and unjust, in fact is a man of such balance and mature judgment as make him superior material for a good magistrate. The News commends him to the voters of this community for a full consideration of his claims.

House Burned Near Egypt.

W. P. Hopkins, of near Egypt, had the misfortune to lose his house and most of the contents Wednesday night by fire, which caught from the cook stove. His kind neighbors are busy building him another house to live in.

The bath tubs at Crowder's barber shop are always kept nice and clean. The best trade is appreciated and solicited.

Cured of Rheumatism.

Mr. Wm. Henry of Chattanooga, Tenn., had rheumatism in his left arm. "The strength seemed to have gone out of the muscles so that it was useless for work," he says. "I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and wrapped the arm in flannel at night, and to my relief I found that the pain gradually left me and the strength returned. In three weeks the rheumatism had disappeared and has not since returned." If troubled with rheumatism try a few applications of Pain Balm. You are certain to be pleased with the relief it affords. ## THAW CASE GOES TO JURY-- MISTRIAL SEEMS PROBABLE

New York, April 11.—Charged with the responsibility of deciding the fate of Harry K. Thaw, the jury which since January 23 has been sitting in judgment on the young slayer of Stanford White retired at 5:17 p. m. yesterday to begin the consideration of their verdict. Six hours later they had failed to reach an agreement, and shortly after 11 o'clock they were locked up for the night in the jury room of the criminal courts building.

Justice Fitzgerald, who had been waiting for some word from the jury room, became convinced at that hour that the chances of receiving a verdict last night were too remote to warrant his waiting up any later. It was said that when Justice Fitzgerald's inquiry was received at the court house the officers on duty there put the matter up to the jurors themselves, asking if there was any possibility of a verdict within the next few hours. The reply was strongly negative. The jury was said to be almost hopelessly divided and nobody connected with the case last night would venture the hope of anything better than a disagreement at the climax of the long drawn out trial.

In the life of Harry Thaw this day will go down as the most trying he has ever experienced. From the opening of court until the jury retired the fates dealt unmercifully with him. Beginning with District Attorney Jerome's final argument and throughout the judge's charge Thaw had to listen to a scathing attack upon his character and to a narrative drawn from the evidence which meant to strip his deeds of the halo of chivalric glory which his own attorney had thrown about them.

A SQUAWK FROM NEW YAWK.

Strange it takes the Old East so long to come to an understanding of the New West. So limited is the horizon of many easterners that they appear to think civilization still halts at the banks of the Mississippi; that beyond reign the barbarian and the boor. The West is bigger and better and more generous than the East. The West has quit laughing at the tenderfoot. This notwithstanding it takes your man of the East much longer to adjust himself to trans-Mississippi environments than it does your man of the plains to recover his composure in New York.

William J. Bryan severely takes to task the New York Tribune for its coarse attempt to ridicule Oklahoma's constitutional convention. Whether the Times' attack be attributable to abysmal ignorance of Western statesmanship or to a reckless, unreasoning partisanship, here is the way The Comonwealth defends Oklahoma against the criticism:

"The New York Tribune indulges in a few slurs that are unworthy of a paper whose proprietor holds a high official position. It would not be fair to hold Ambassador Reid accountable for what a snobbish editorial employee says, but it is strange any editor with brains enough to secure employment should so forget the courtesy due from the Tribune to the men entrusted by their constituents with the important work of framing a state constitution. The Tribune says that 'the Oklahoma convention was full of cornfield lawyers,' and as if it was intoxicated by the sound of the phrase it repeats it saying: 'The cornfield jurists thought it wiser on the whole to wait until the state was organized and exploit their nostrums in the halls of the state legislature.'

The whole editorial is written in flippant vein and reveals the contempt in which the editor holds these men chosen by the people of the new state to form their organic law. The editor does not know what the constitution contains, that he admits, 'will be disclosed only when the full text reaches the public,' but he does not have to see the constitution to be convinced that 'cornfield lawyers' are not likely to do anything wise.

"It is unfortunate that an eastern paper should be in control of a man so prejudiced against the West. That there is no ground for such prejudice goes without saying. Oklahoma was settled up by as intelligent and patriotic a class of people as can be found in the Union. No state has brighter prospects and there is every reason to believe that the constitution is drawn in accordance with the wishes of the citizens.

"If the Oklahoma convention had been filled with Depews and Platts the Tribune's editor would be gushing over their statesmanship, but as the delegates owe their places to the farmers rather than to the railroads, they are dubbed 'cornfield lawyers.' How long will the country lawyers, physicians, and the cross-road storekeepers continue to take their political instruction from men whose ears, like the ears of the Tribune's editor, are trained to catch the slightest pulsations of a pocket book? How long will the 'cornfield lawyers' follow the lead of the trust-fed attorneys and the corporation controlled editors."

IT'S JUST AS WELL, PERHAPS.

It seems that Republican Oklahoma court has invalidated the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention, which will put the first election under the supervision of Governor Frantz and two other federal appointees. Well, we had hoped to have this election and the canvass of returns in good old Democratic hands; but, then, last fall with the Republicans in control of the election machinery we nevertheless managed to do pretty well-raked in about everything in sight, merely missing a dozen districts or so. It would be brutal to wish to get more than we got before. So let the Republicans have the painful honor of counting the Democrats in again.

Gymnastics alone can never give that elasticity, ease and graceful figure which comes by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. G. M. Ramsey.

Huddleston for Representative.

The News is authorized to announce Frank Huddleston, of near Ada, as a candidate for representative of Pontotoc county in the legislature of Oklahoma.

Frank Huddleston was born near Pauls Valley, I. T., January 31, 1879. He lived there until he was eight years of age, when his parents sent him to Lawrence, Kansas, where he attended school for three years. In the meantime his parents removed to what is now Allen, I. T., where Frank attended the public schools until his father's death, after which for two years he engaged in the mercantile business.

Eighteen months ago he moved from Allen to his farm near Ada. Having lived at Allen sixteen years he has a host of friends there and many of them were solicitous that he make this race. Mr. Huddleston has lived on a farm all of his life except three years when he was at school. Being a farmer himself, his interests are identical with the farmers' interests.

He has been a close student of political affairs and being one-fourth Choctaw Indian; if elected, what he says and does concerning Indian affairs will doubtless have much weight and considering that much legislation of this character will come up, it is reasonable that he will make a formidable representative.

Mr. Huddleston is a life long Democrat. He says he could not be anything else, for the principles which he believes in are those which characterize the Democratic party. He says that he will make an active canvass and will proclaim his ideas from the stump throughout the county.

A Word from Weaver.

To the Voters of the 23d State Senatorial District of Oklahoma:

Several days ago I announced through the papers of Pontotoc and Seminole counties my candidacy for state senator, subject to the action of the coming democratic primaries.

Within a few days there will be furnished the public a corrected and finished official draft of the new state constitution. From a careful study of its provisions, there may be learned with certainty the nature of the powers granted and of the demands and prohibitions made on the state legislature, from which a candidate for legislative honors can more safely determine the proper scope for his platform of principles.

A careful study of the constitution and the character of industrial, commercial and educational conditions at present existing within the state will teach the one possessing true Democratic thought, the kind of platform of principles he should write and in support of which he may confidently go before the people pledging them in all sincerity, if he should be elected, to faithfully labor for their adoption into effective laws.

It is presumed that every candidate for Democratic nomination to legislative office is in sympathy with the masses of the people, but sometimes his platform of principles indicates his Democratic heart far more than does his life's record before his fellow man. Within a few days my platform of principles will be published and receive the widest possible dissemination through this state senatorial district. I hope there may not be included in it any demand for and in behalf of the people which will be inconsistent with the life I have lived.

I shall visit every community and see every democrat as nearly as possible before the primaries, proclaiming my principles from the stump and in talk man to man.

The following verse was evidently meant for some other application, but I believe, should the people compel each candidate for office to follow its maximum in his representations before them, whether he would or not, they would oftentimes secure better results: "To thine own self be true; it must follow, as night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man." Sincerely,

Otis B. Weaver,
Candidate for State Senate.

It's virtues have been established for many years, and thousands of people have been made happy by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. G. M. Ramsey.

A Woman Tells How to Relieve Rheumatic Pains.

I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked.—Mrs. SARA A. COLE, 140 S. New St., Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale by G. M. Ramsey.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way. This, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

WHY PROPOSAL WAS SUDDEN.

One Thing That Fond Youth Had Taken No Thought For.

"This is so sudden!" As he heard the girl speak these words the astonished young man rose to his feet in bewilderment. "Sudden!" he repeated. "Did I hear aright? More than two years ago, I believe it was, since I first met you. For several months after that I only saw you occasionally; then gradually, very gradually, I increased my visits. It took six months to get on a formal calling basis; it took six months more to be a regular visitor; six months more to call you by your Christian name; and it is only during the last few months that I have ventured, with many misgivings, even to hold your hand. And now, after all this gradual development of my love, you tell me that my declaration is so sudden. Do you call this sudden?" "I do, indeed," she replied calmly. "But for what reason?" The young lady replied, with some degree of hauteur: "Simply this. I hardly imagined you would dare to speak to me like this for another two years at least, considering your present salary."

As Far as He Could Go.

In his infant breast, possibly, he is cherishing the hope that he will ultimately reach the age when "the fellers will call him Bill," but at the present time he has "just turned two," and Willie is a conventionalist of no mean attainments for his years. The other day he was taken out visiting, and, among other things, was called upon to "count the cars of a freight train." He was compelled to rely upon his memory, but "counting the cars" is a favorite daily occupation as they pass within sight of the windows of his home. This is the way he did it: "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve."

Fobles of Letter Writers.

The London Chronicle wants to know how you date your letters. If they are dated at all or which of the nine ways appeals to an individual's taste or laziness. There are some persons who do not take the trouble to date their letters at all, and the Chronicle is brutal enough to add "they are mostly women." Who does not receive letters with signatures that beat the Dutch for illegibility? Or, perhaps with no address, no date, and the signature "that would puzzle an archangel and split a linotype machine." But the worst of it is so many people rejoice in their illegible signature! It lends an air of distinction to the baldest missive.

A One-Armed Life Saver.

One of the life savers along the Delaware river front is Paul Greenwood, now a resident of Chester. Greenwood lost an arm and a leg several years ago, but despite this misfortune he continues at his work of saving lives of people who fall overboard. Not long ago he saw five Philadelphians struggling in the water off Marcus Hook, their yacht having capsized. He jumped into a boat and hurried to the scene of the upset yacht and saved all of the members of the party, most of whom were women.

HOW THE EXPERT KNEW.

Something Even Ordinary Man Might Have Discovered.

"Mr. William Kopfer is a well-known resident of Denver, Col., and an artist upon the violin. He is a connoisseur in instruments. A friend of his told him that he possessed a good imitation Stradivarius and Mr. Kopfer requested that the violin be brought him for inspection. The instrument was in a bad state of repair, and its owner fixed it as well as he could with a generous quantity of glue, before taking it to the expert. Kopfer drew the violin from its case and drew the bow slowly across the strings. 'Ach!' he exclaimed. 'There must be a new E string.' A new string was substituted and again Kopfer tried the tone. He bent his ear anxiously to the instrument and his bowing head was almost affectionate. But he seemed still unsatisfied. 'Der iss too much glue,' he announced sadly. 'What?' exclaimed his friend. 'Is it possible for you to tell that by the tone?' 'Ach, Herr Je! Nein,' was the quick retort. 'By der schnell!'"

The Worth of Nurses.

Contrasting his Indian experiences with those in South Africa, Field Marshal Lord Roberts said that for the first two or three months of the siege of Delhi not a single case of amputation survived, and at Lucknow the death statistics were very similar. In fact, it would hardly be possible to describe what the wounded and sick suffered during the Indian campaign from the overpowering heat, the swarm of insects, the stench, the lack of surgical and medical treatment and the want of proper nursing. During the South African war a totally different state of affairs prevailed, and the presence of trained nurses contributed to the difference.

SOME SEASONABLE STYLES

So often the spring season is so short that it seems as if the heat of summer followed immediately after the intense cold of midwinter, and then a cloth costume seems to be quite necessary, as there is really so little time to wear it, but the well dressed woman takes no chances on exceptional seasons and provides herself with a smart cloth costume of light weight, knowing that there will be plenty of days during the summer when such a costume will prove exactly the correct thing to wear.

Shaggy rough materials and dark colors do not come under this head, although the light weight black cloth gown, made in some fanciful design, even in the eternal medium length

ORIGINAL DESIGNS FOR WALKING GOWNS

- (1) Blouse costume of face cloth, trimmed with strapplings of same.
- (2) Cape costume of cloth inset with coarse canvas. Blouse of Venetian guipure.

coat and skirt, is by no means to be tabooed, and blue and black serge costumes are always to be found in every thorough outfit. The palest of grays, almost white, the tans, so light as to be nearly yellow, the new faint shades of all colors, come within the possible and practical list, and all of these colors are suitable for long or a short, thick waist. However, it is not a fashion that is generally attempted, excepting by a dressmaker who so thoroughly understands her business that she studies lines, and she will cut the wrap in such wise that by adding an inch or two in the front or back the desired line is given, and, presto! the wearer of the gown looks as delightfully slender as she could possibly desire.

Tassels and buttons play an important part in this season's clothes. The buttons are most decorative, often really artistic, while the tassels give a charming finish. Lace ruffles, jabots and ties, with ruchings of lace so arranged as to soften hard edges and yet for the lace itself not to show, seem to be the part of the elegancies of modern dress that suggest extravagance without too boldly asserting it. Buttons, buckles, lace, etc., add materially to the cost of the gown, also, which apparently is one of the desired points of modern dress; tassels and braiding are not so costly, although the silver tassels are by no means cheap.

Shall skirts be plain or trimmed is a question that is still being most violently discussed, and a lot of argument is being wasted on the topic, for in these days no woman feels she is called upon to slavishly obey any of fashion's mandates, but can choose what best suits her own especial style of beauty. The long plain skirts are most delightfully graceful, outline a good figure to perfection, and yet are cut so wide that the flare below the hips takes away any idea of the old fashioned tight fitting skirt. With one of these perfectly hung and fitted skirts made of some handsome material, nothing is required to add to its beauty, and yet the wide band of some contrasting material or embroidery is effective and very charming.

In making a walking skirt which is to be short, everything should be remembered and adopted that will give an appearance of length. Circular trimmings, therefore, ought to be avoided. A plaited skirt, with the plaits running downwards and stitched down firmly to about eight inches from the ground, is a very good style. Another desirable form of walking-skirt has stitched strapplings covering the seams and extra plaits let in the lower part of each gore; this skirt is best made unlined. For a very tall woman a double skirt is not unfavorable if made with a deep point front and back cut up only at the sides. You will find it a grand quilt, being soft, warm and light weight, also easy to wash and will stay in place better than batting.

For Silverware.

For silverware use sweet oil and whiting, rub well with a flannel cloth, and polish with chamois leather; but if silver is regularly washed with soap and water to which a little ammonia is added, well dried with a linen cloth, and vigorously rubbed with chamois, few stains will make their appearance.

For a Sore Throat.

An excellent and cleansing gargle is made by adding a large saltspoonful of salt and carbonate of soda mixed in equal quantities to a glass of water. To insure a speedy recovery, the throat should be well gargled several times daily with the mixture.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY WINDOW.

Center of Attraction in Living Room
Needs Artistic Touch.

There is always a particular window in the living room that is the center of attraction, and it usually commands a view of the street. If the window is large and of clear glass, or even if the panes are small, it may be made attractive with a very small expenditure of time and money if one has ingenuity.

Waists to match the skin are again the most fashionable this spring, but almost invariably is there a short coat or wrap to be worn with the gown. This is on the order of the short wrap with long shoulder effect, not generally becoming, it must be admitted, and yet decidedly smart.

If plain white is desired there is nothing prettier or so dainty as dotted net. Or, if a bright effect is desired, select an Indian silk stripe with plenty of yellow and red in it. A fern pan filled with maidenhair fern, or even a common woodfern, will make a beautiful window ornament, and may also be used for centerpiece on the dining table.

If there is a window seat it should harmonize with the sash curtains. It may be a seat without flounces or may be a box used as a handy receptacle for putting away gowns.

The cushion and flounces may be made of tapestry, the former being stuffed with sea-moss and buttoned.

If a cheaper material is desired denim may be utilized, and it should be filled with excelsior.

As to the pillows that make the window attractive one can not have too many of them.

If the window sill is broad enough one may have a box of bulbs in the winter; they can be set away at night, so that the frost will not nip them.

Sometimes one is unfortunate in having a window which opens on an alley, or from which there is an unpleasant outlook.

TO REMOVE IRON MOLD.

Lemon Juice and Salt Can Be Trusted to Eradicate It.

This stain is usually caused by material coming into contact with rust, or by ink. To remove it sprinkle the stain with lemon juice and salt, and expose to the air and sun. Repeat this until the stain has gone. If the above remedy fails, dip the stain into boiling water, and rub it with salts of lemon, using a rag for the purpose.

Then hold the stain over a cup or basin, and pour a stream of boiling water through. The article should be well rinsed and washed to remove all traces of the salts, which would otherwise burn the material. This last remedy must not be tried with color, as salts of lemon destroys color. If colored material is stained with iron mold, the only remedy is lemon juice, and this must be used cautiously, as it destroys some colors.

Good Butter.

It is not every woman who knows what good butter really is. In how many establishments that pride themselves on their cuisine has not one met with poor and tasteless butter, oily butter, even with a tainted article which gives a flavor to all the cooking and the cakes? The yellow butter of the ordinary hotel is a thing to shudder at—not to eat. Butter factories and separator have done much toward bringing a sound quality within the reach of many people; but with the agricultural report on butter before us, with its scathing comments on the prevalence of coloring matter, the disguises of margarine and lard, or the use of boracic acid, one appreciates the security of first-rate butter, above suspicion, made in the old-fashioned way, though it must be owned it is not easy to obtain and very little is quite pure.

Chicken in Rice Cups.

This is a delicious breakfast or luncheon dish and also is an economical way of using small quantities of leftovers. To prepare it line small buttered cups with soft boiled rice a half inch in thickness. Fill the center with cooked chicken, finely minced, delicately seasoned and slightly made moist with cream sauce or chicken broth. A few chopped oysters added to the chicken improve the flavor. Onion juice and minced celery may be added if desired. Cover the top with a layer of the rice and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Then invert the cups carefully on a heated platter and serve at once with any preferred sauce.

Way of Using Worn Blankets.

Take an old blanket and wash clean. If ragged at top or bottom cut it off a little, also darn any thin places. Buy white cheese cloth at five cents a yard, about eight yards being required, according to size of blanket. Sew up breadths, after cutting them the right length and cover both sides of blanket. Tie with red or white yarn and button-hole the edges also. You will find it a grand quilt, being soft, warm and light weight, also easy to wash and will stay in place better than batting.

For Silverware.

For silverware use sweet oil and whiting, rub well with a flannel cloth, and polish with chamois leather; but if silver is regularly washed with soap and water to which a little ammonia is added, well dried with a linen cloth, and vigorously rubbed with chamois, few stains will make their appearance.

For a Sore Throat.

An excellent and cleansing gargle is made by adding a large saltspoonful of salt and carbonate of soda mixed in equal quantities to a glass of water. To insure a speedy recovery, the throat should be well gargled several times daily with the mixture.

Women of the Philippines

By Mrs. Henry W. Lawton

Mrs. Lawton Writes of Pleasant Acquaintances Made in the Islands—Ten-Year-Old Girls Expert Cigarette Makers—Women of Lower Class Thrifty, Kindly and Cleanly—Upper Class Women Dainty, Attractive and Vivacious—Fascinating Filipino Belles—The Eloquence of Gestures—Girls Marry Young and Usually Are Happy—No Divorces Allowed—Smoking Among Women General.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The wife of the late Gen. Henry W. Lawton was in the truest sense her distinguished husband's associate and companion during his adventurous army experience. She was a widow to her husband and family, she yet could always find time to interest herself in the families of the soldiers of the garrison. An intelligent observer, she has gathered a large amount of experience of the most interesting kind.

The lower class, whose lives are so simple, whose wants are marvelously few, whose occupations are varied and singularly suited to them, interested me strongly. They are apparently as happy living in the end of a casco and keep house with the same ease as those who live on land and occupy a picturesquely nipa hut of small proportions, whose roof seems elastic, it sometimes covers so many heads.

These women take in washing, peddle dainty fabrics made of their fruit fibers, make bamboo matting, sew or embroider. Some with large flat baskets of fruits and the invariable betel nut, done up neatly in a spicy leaf held together by a lime paste that evidently renders it more palatable, move from place to place as occasion requires and squat patiently in the shade waiting customers.

The stalls in markets are also kept principally by women, some of whom live right there with their families. Then the cigar factories furnish occupation to many of all ages. I was astonished to see little girls of not more than nine or ten years with the deftness of experts roll cigarettes and cigars and shred tobacco; while not a few pretty little babies, each clothed only in a short pina shirt, crept around as the mothers worked.

Hundreds are employed in these large factories. They obtain their food for a few pennies from a neighbor conveniently located, whose business it is to furnish them with provisions. I have often watched with a great deal of interest the keen relish with which they gather around the central figure who serves the chosen dish from quaint pottery with a coconut ladle, amid indescribable chatter and undoubted enjoyment. When everyone is satisfied they repair to their homes for the necessary siesta. The hostess clears up her dishes and follows their example and the corner becomes quiet and empty until evening, when the gay scene is repeated.

Their cooking is done out of doors under a bamboo or thatched nipa awning, which protects them from both sun and rain. Many a time has the odorous whiff of a choice titbit, consisting of spoiled fish and garlic, found its way through our drawing room windows from the nipa shacks of our next-door neighbors.

Several times I had occasion to befriend and extend to them a kindness, for which they were most grateful. They showed their appreciation in occasional neighborly gifts of native fruits, a few fresh eggs when they were scarce in the markets, or some Filipino dish which was both dainty and palatable and which I always returned with a typical American delicacy that pleased them very much. This was also the case at Convento de Paco, where I soon became an "intimate," learned to know and love the sisters there and shall always remember most gratefully their kindness and sympathy.

Among the many convents in and around Manila there are two more that I knew well—Santa Isabella, in the walled city, where my little girls attended school for short time, and the one so picturesque on a little island in the Pasig, near Ayala bridge. We are still wearing garments made by the busy fingers there, and the three rag dolls, over whose trousseaus these nuns and even the visiting padres dined much amusement, are treasured in the family as tenderly as ever. For pretty dolls of bisque, paper or even rag are unknown in that country.

My children were profoundly struck with the "hakings" in the way of them, but would like to see the man who could convince her."

Now we come to the middle class, who are respectable in every sense. Their houses are spotless, their clothes always neat, their glossy black hair well washed and tidy. These have time to visit and possess at least a shower bath in the house, so they are not obliged to resort to a stream or convenient spigot on the street for the comfort of a bath. They can permit themselves the luxury of a carametta and perhaps a caraboo whose milk is peddled in picturesque jars by some male member of the family. They will take in a little sewing and fine embroidery. They are very expert with the needle and fond of jewelry, and not a few possess some quite pretty pieces of pearls or diamonds quaintly cut.

Perhaps the first peep at the high-born ladies of the land would not be amiss on the Luneta, which was so beautiful in the evening light. There was the bay, with our great warships against the gorgeous coloring of the setting sun on one side, the picturesque wall of old Manila with its heavy gates, ancient moat, fort and sentries on the other. While the band played in the plaza, where seats were provided for multitudes and every nationality was represented, many varieties of vehicles drove around and on down for a mile, where one turned in a small circle around the Andal monument, returning between cocoanuts and palms to the music and the crowd.

There one met one's friends and acquaintances, looked upon mestizos and Filipinos and Filipino belles and enjoyed alike the unique scene and delicious whiff of the sea. The mestizos are perhaps the prettiest. They have clear, rich, creamy skins, soft, dark eyes and black hair, which is arranged simply but very becomingly. The full-blooded Filipino is darker and often very handsome. Not infrequently one recognizes the small, even, pretty features which proclaim an Indian ancestor and admires the grace which seems to belong peculiarly to the people of that interesting country.

I formed several pleasant personal friendships with these women, visiting them in their homes and inviting them to mine. Upon more than one occasion when an interpreter could not be obtained I was brave enough to venture alone to make social calls. Considering the very limited knowledge of English on one hand and most imperfect Spanish on the other, I have always flattered myself that we came out of it very creditably. It is astonishing how much one can say under these conditions with a few signs and gestures.

Once, one of our favorite American generals, stationed north of Manila, desired to give a social touch toward cementing the friendship and good fellowship between the two nations, and with this end in view asked an army woman to bring a party up to his headquarters for a few days' visit. Upon their arrival the general gave a reception, to which all the principal people of the town were invited. They returned the hospitality promptly and cordially, thereby promoting much pleasant intercourse.

Among the Filipino ladies there was one who will ever hold an agreeable place in the memory of the party, so bright and pretty was she, so quick at repartee and altogether fascinating. During one of the occasions when they were all together, I do not remember now what gave rise to it, her black eyes fairly flashed fire as she said: "But you will never conquer us! You may go on bringing your soldiers to fight us—millions of them—but you will not conquer us!" Then in the most tragic manner she added: "In-sure-recto! To—the—the—death!"

It was like a bombshell in the midst of this mild, amicable, peaceable assembly.

An American woman stepped up to her quickly but quietly, gently took both the dark hands in hers and smiled in her eyes as she answered: "My dear, we are not going to bring more soldiers; we don't want to fight you. We want to conquer you with love."

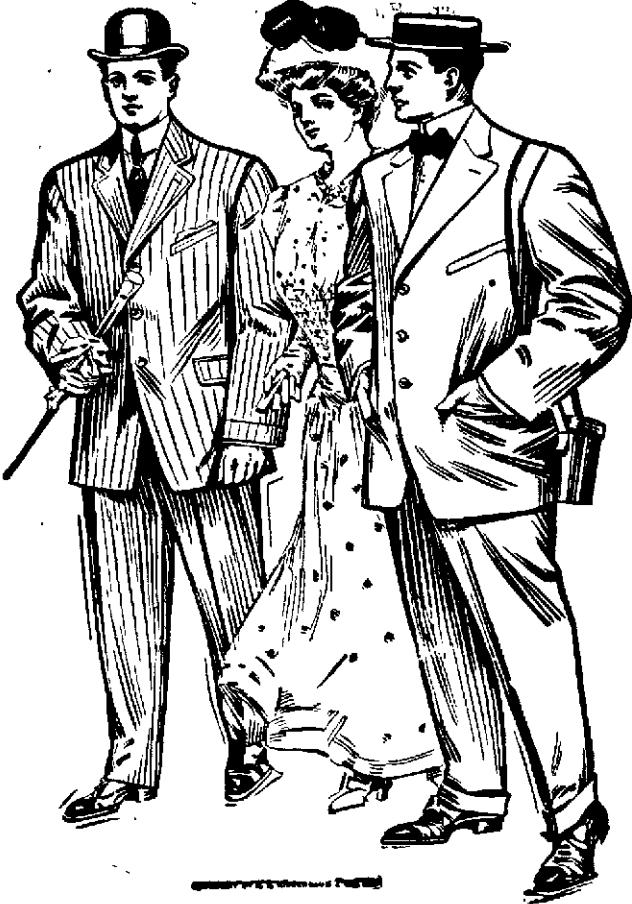

With a low bow, indescribable grace and the prettiest little gesture in the world, she said: "We are conquered."

As the Americans were starting back to Manila, in the midst of the good wishes expressed on both sides, waving of handkerchiefs, good-bys and adieus, the pretty girl with twinkling eyes and saucy voice called out: "Adios! Adios! Poco tiempo—boom—boom!" And everybody laughed. Notwithstanding this unwished-for prediction so prettily spoken, the friendships formed then remained and kind feelings were established fact.

As a rule the Filipinos marry very young and the wedding festivities are often kept up for a week. I was invited to a bridal tiffi on one memorable occasion which began at ten o'clock and was only at its height when I was compelled to leave at five o'clock, but I enjoyed it thoroughly and found the entertainment most interesting.

Their domestic relations are, fortunately, happy, for there are no divorces in that Catholic land. They smoke usually cigarettes, often a slim, light cigar a quarter of a yard long, which I have had hospitably offered me on many occasions.

Indeed, I learned to love their blue skies and bright sunshine, the beautiful scenery and quaint surroundings and found interest in everything. When I left their country that had grown dear to me in so short a time, many of the women of the Philippines whom I am glad to call my friends still came from Imus, Bacoor, Parañaque, Pasay and Pasig to bid me Godspeed.

CONVENTION ITSELF MAY DRAW THE PRECINCT LINES

Guthrie, Okla., April 11.—The court order in the injunction case against the enforcement of the constitutional convention's election ordinance and the appointment of a supreme election board decided by Chief Justice Buford here Monday, will not be made until Saturday, when the temporary restraining order asked for becomes effective.

The court's written opinion contains about 3,000 words, and deals specifically with the creation of a supreme election board and the matter of county divisions. In decreeing that the convention had power to change lines of Old Oklahoma counties, the same being identical to the formation of a state government, the convention representatives feel it has scored a victory.

In holding that the election laws of Oklahoma Territory were extended over Indian Territory (and to the new counties) by the enabling act for the purposes of the first election, the expense of this election is checked up to the Territory of Oklahoma to pay. The Oklahoma election law reads:

The Territorial Board of Election Commissioners shall from time to time certify to the auditor of the territory the necessary expense of preparing and distributing of ballots and stamps, and the auditor shall audit and issue his war-

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Barton has announced his appointment of members of the City Council's several standing committees. The personnel of these committees is printed below. It would be well for citizens to preserve a copy to refer to; so that often when having business with the council they can save time and trouble by going directly to the chairman of the proper committee.

The committees are composed as follows.

Cemetery, Sanitary and City Park.—J. T. Conn chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Sutton.

Finance.—W. C. Lee chairman, T. J. Chambliss and M. D. Timberlake.

Fire.—R. T. Kerr chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Conn.

Lights.—J. T. Sutton chairman, R. T. Kerr and J. T. Conn.

nal plan was for the supreme election board created by the ordinance to appoint county election boards, but as the court expressed a doubt as to the legality of such appointment delegated to other authority, the convention, in remodeling the election ordinance will probably name such boards, two members to be Democratic and one Republican. These boards will divide the counties into election boards already existing in the old Oklahoma counties under the decision remain undisturbed. There are forty-nine new counties in the state.

Ordinance.—T. J. Chambliss chairman, M. D. Timberlake and W. C. Lee. Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks.—M. D. Timberlake chairman, J. T. Sutton and A. J. Deaton.

Water.—W. H. Markham chairman, A. J. Deaton and W. C. Lee.

Police, Enforcement of Ordinances and Impeachment.—A. J. Deaton chairman, M. D. Timberlake and T. J. Chambliss.

The committee last named is a newly created one, whose duty, as indicated, is to exercise a supervision over the enforcement of the city's laws and to prefer charges against any official guilty of neglect of duty or malfeasance or misfeasance in office. The city attorney is made a member of this committee, as he is of the ordinance committee.

THAW CASE GOES TO JURY-- MISTRIAL SEEMS PROBABLE

New York, April 11.—Charged with the responsibility of deciding the fate of Harry K. Thaw, the jury which since January 23 has been sitting in judgment on the young slayer of Stanford White retired at 9:17 p. m. yesterday to begin the consideration of their verdict. Six hours later they had failed to reach an agreement, and shortly after 11 o'clock they were locked up for the night in the jury room of the criminal courts building.

Justice Fitzgerald, who had been waiting for some word from the jury room, became convinced at that hour that the chances of receiving a verdict last night were too remote to warrant his waiting up any later. It was said that when Justice Fitzgerald's inquiry was received at the court house the officers on duty there put the matter up to the jurors themselves, asking if there was any possibility of a verdict within the next few hours. The reply was strongly negative. The jury was said to be almost hopelessly divided and nobody connected with the case last night would venture the hope of anything better than a disagreement as the climax of the long drawn out trial.

In the life of Harry Thaw this day will go down as the most trying he has ever experienced. From the opening of court until the jury retired the fates dealt unmercifully with him. Beginning with District Attorney Jerome's final argument and throughout the judge's charge Thaw had to listen to a scathing attack upon his character and to a narrative drawn from the evidence which meant to strip his deeds of the halo of chivalric glory which his own attorney had thrown about them.

Mr. Davidson is a native of the Old Dominion, was reared in Arkansas, and six years ago he moved to the Territory. His good judgment is shown by his coming straight to Ada where he engaged for several years in the mechanic's trade. Latterly he has conducted a second hand and repairing establishment on South Broadway. A man of modesty and reserve, he dislikes to talk of himself; but there are a number of Ada's leading citizens who knew Mr. Davidson away back in Arkansas, and they will vouch for him strong. However, he scarcely needs that, for he is well known and esteemed in Ada. A Democrat, he is one of the staunch Simon Pure type.

Mr. Davidson is not without experience in public affairs. Besides, he has a wide experience with men and business matters, has deep convictions about what is just and unjust, in fact is a man of such balance and mature judgment as make him superior material for good magistrate. The News commands him to the voters of this community for a full consideration of his claims.

Davidson for Justice.

George Davidson announces, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, for justice of the peace for the municipal township that shall include Ada.

"When the people of Oklahoma read the constitution in its entirety it will need no advocate. That constitution embodied every principal that the masses require and demanded, and when the vote is taken it will be found to be practically unanimous in its favor. There are a few sore heads that are opposed to it in the Republican ranks, (and be it said to the credit of the Republican party they are mighty few) from the simple reason that it is a Democratic document written by Democrats. Had the Republicans been in the majority they would have swallowed anything that might have been written without a protest. The Republicans themselves regard the Asp constitution as a joke, and when the time comes for a vote on the present constitution as written, you will find the real influential Republicans, with a few exceptions, heartily in favor of adopting it in its entirety.

"They accuse us of breaking faith with our constituents by leaving out the 'Jim Crow' clause without fully understanding the situation, or the pressure that was brought to bear for its rejection from the constitution. That will be adjusted to the entire satisfaction of the whole state at the first session of the legislature."

Mr. Weaver was non-committal in regard to state politics, and being an old newspaper man himself, the reporter refrained from pressing the subject. He said, however, that there would be less than one hundred votes polled against the adoption of the constitution in Pontotoc county.—Ardmore Democrat.

A SQUAWK FROM NEW YAWK.

Strange it takes the Old East so long to come to an understanding of the New West. So limited is the horizon of many easterners that they appear to think civilization still halts at the banks of the Mississippi; that beyond reign the barbarian and the boor. The West is bigger and better and more generous than the East. The West has quit laughing at the tenderfoot. This notwithstanding it takes your man of the East much longer to adjust himself to trans-Mississippi environments than it does your man of the plains to recover his composure in New York.

William J. Bryan severely takes to task the New York Tribune for its coarse attempt to ridicule Oklahoma's constitutional convention. Whether the Times' attack be attributable to abysmal ignorance of Western statesmanship or to a reckless, unreasoning partisanship, here is the way The Commoner defends Oklahoma against the criticism:

"The New York Tribune indulges in a few slurs that are unworthy of a paper whose proprietor holds a high official position. It would not be fair to hold Ambassador Reid accountable for what a snobbish editorial employee says, but it is strange any editor with brains enough to secure employment should so forget the courtesy due from the Tribune to the men entrusted by their constituents with the important work of framing a state constitution. The Tribune says that 'the Oklahoma convention was full of cornfield lawyers,' and as if it was intoxicated by the sound of the phrase it repeats it saying: 'The cornfield jurists thought it wiser on the whole to wait until the state was organized and exploit their nostrums in the halls of the state legislature.'

The whole editorial is written in flippant vein and reveals the contempt in which the editor holds these men chosen by the people of the new state to form their organic law. The editor does not know what the constitution contains, that, he admits, 'will be disclosed only when the full text reaches the public,' but he does not have to see the constitution to be convinced that 'cornfield lawyers' are not likely to do anything wise.

"It is unfortunate that an eastern paper should be in control of a man so prejudiced against the West. That there is no ground for such prejudice goes without saying. Oklahoma was settled up by as intelligent and patriotic a class of people as can be found in the Union. No state has brighter prospects and there is every reason to believe that the constitution is drawn in accordance with the wishes of the citizens.

If the Oklahoma convention had been filled with Depews and Platts the Tribune's editor would be gushing over their statesmanship, but as the delegates owe their places to the farmers rather than to the railroads, they are dubbed 'cornfield lawyers.'

How long will the country lawyers, physicians, and the cross-road storekeepers continue to take their political instruction from men whose ears, like the ears of the Tribune's editor, are trained to catch the slightest pulsations of a pocket book? How long will the 'cornfield lawyers' follow the lead of the trust-fed attorneys and the corporation controlled editors?"

IT'S JUST AS WELL, PERHAPS.

It seems that Republican Oklahoma court has invalidated the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention, which will put the first election under the supervision of Governor Frantz and two other federal appointees. Well, we had hoped to have this election and the canvass of returns in good old Democratic hands; but, then, last fall with the Republicans in control of the election machinery we nevertheless managed to do pretty well—raked in about everything in sight, merely missing a dozen districts or so. It would be brutal to wish to get more than we got before. So let the Republicans have the painful honor of counting the Democrats in again.

Gymnastics alone can never give that elasticity, ease and graceful figure which comes by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. G. M. Ramsey.

Huddleston for Representative.

The News is authorized to announce Frank Huddleston, of near Ada, as a candidate for representative of Pontotoc county in the legislature of Oklahoma.

Frank Huddleston was born near Pauls Valley, I. T., January 31, 1879. He lived there until he was eight years of age, when his parents sent him to Lawrence, Kansas, where he attended school for three years. In the meantime his parents removed to what is now Allen, I. T., where Frank attended the public schools until his father's death, after which for two years he and his brother-in-law, C. W. Floyd, engaged in the mercantile business.

Eighteen months ago he moved from Allen to his farm near Ada. Having lived at Allen sixteen years he has a host of friends there and many of them were solicitous that he make this race. Mr. Huddleston has lived on a farm all of his life except three years when he was at school. Being a farmer himself, his interests are identical with the farmers' interests.

He has been a close student of political affairs and being one-fourth Choctaw Indian; if elected, what he says and does concerning Indian affairs will doubtless have much weight and considering that much legislation of this character will come up, it is reasonable that he will make a formidable representative.

Mr. Huddleston is a life long Democrat. He says he could not be anything else, for the principles which he believes in are those which characterize the Democratic party. He says that he will make an active canvass and will proclaim his ideas from the stump throughout the county.

A Word from Weaver.

To the Voters of the 23d State Senatorial District of Oklahoma:

Several days ago I announced through the papers of Pontotoc and Seminole counties my candidacy for state senator, subject to the action of the coming democratic primaries.

Within a few days there will be furnished the public a corrected and finished official draft of the new state constitution. From a careful study of its provisions, there may be learned with certainty the nature of the powers granted and of the de jure and prohibitions made on the state legislature, from which a candidate for legislative honors can more safely determine the proper scope for his platform of principles.

A careful study of the constitution and the character of industrial, commercial and educational conditions at present existing within the state will teach the one possessing true Democratic thought, the kind of platform of principles he should write and in support of which he may confidently go before the people pledging them in all sincerity, if he should be elected, to faithfully labor for their adoption into effective laws.

It is presumed that every candidate for Democratic nomination to legislative office is in sympathy with the masses of the people, but sometimes his platform of principles indicates his Democratic heart far more than does his life's record before his fellow man. Within a few days my platform of principles will be published and receive the widest possible dissemination through this state senatorial district. I hope there may not be included in it any demand for and in behalf of the people which will be inconsistent with the life I have lived.

I shall visit every community and see every democrat as nearly as possible before the primaries, proclaiming my principles from the stump and in talk man to man. The following verse was evidently meant for some other application, but I believe, should the people compel each candidate for office to follow its maximum in his representations before them, whether he would or not, they would oftentimes secure better results: "To thine own self be true; it must follow, as night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

Sincerely,
Otis B. Weaver,
Candidate for State Senate.

Its virtues have been established for many years, and thousands of people have been made happy by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. G. M. Ramsey.

A Woman Tells How to Relieve Rheumatic Pains.

I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked.—Mrs. SARA A. COLE, 140 S. New St., Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale by G. M. Ramsey.

WHY PROPOSAL WAS SUDDEN.

One Thing That Fond Youth Had Taken No Thought For.

"This is so sudden!" As he heard the girl speak these words the astonished young man rose to his feet in bewilderment. "Sudden!" he repeated. "Did I hear aright? More than two years ago, I believe it was, since I first met you. For several months after that I only saw you occasionally; then gradually, very gradually, I increased my visits. It took six months to get on a formal calling basis; it took six months more to be a regular visitor; six months more to call you by your Christian name, and it is only during the last few months that I have ventured, with many misgivings, even to hold your hand. And now, after all this gradual development of my love, you tell me that my declaration is so sudden. Do you call this sudden?" "I do, indeed," she replied calmly. "But for what reason?" The young lady replied, with some dexter of豪爽: "Simply this. I hardly imagined you would dare to speak to me like this for another two years at least, considering your present salary."

As Far as He Could Go.

In his infant breast, possibly, he is cherishing the hope that he will ultimately reach the age when the fellers will call him BILL, but at the present time he has "just turned two," and Willie is a conventionalist of no mean attainments for his years. The other day he was taken out visiting, and, among other things, was called upon to "count the cars of a freight train." He was compelled to rely upon his memory, but "counting the cars" is a favorite daily occupation as they pass within sight of the windows of his home. This is the way he did it: "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve."

Fables of Letter Writers.

The London Chronicle wants to know how you date your letters. If they are dated at all or which of the nine ways appeals to an individual's taste or laziness. There are some persons who do not take the trouble to date their letters at all, and the Chronicle is brutal enough to add "they are mostly women." Who does not receive letters with signatures that beat the Dutch for illegibility? Or, perhaps with no address, no date, and the signature "that would puzzle an archangel and split a linotype machine." But the worst of it is so many people rejoice in their illegible signature! It lends an air of distinction to the baldest missive.

A One-Armed Life Saver.

One of the life savers along the Delaware river front is Paul Greenwood, now a resident of Chester. Greenwood lost an arm and a leg several years ago, but despite this misfortune he continues at his work of saving lives of people who fall overboard. Not long ago he saw five Philadelphians struggling in the water off Marcus Hook, their yacht having capsized. He jumped into a boat and hurried to the scene of the upset yacht and saved all of the members of the party, most of whom were women.

CONVENTION ITSELF MAY DRAW THE PRECINCT LINES

Guthrie, Okla., April 11.—The court order in the injunction case against the enforcement of the constitutional convention's election ordinance and the appointment of a supreme election board decided by Chief Justice Buford here Monday, will not be made until Saturday, when the temporary restraining order asked for becomes effective.

The court's written opinion contains about 3,000 words, and deals specifically with the creation of a supreme election board and the matter of county divisions.

In decreeing that the convention had power to change lines of Old Oklahoma counties, the same being identical to the formation of a state government, the convention representatives feel it has scored a victory.

In holding that the election laws of Oklahoma Territory were extended over Indian Territory (and to the new counties) by the enabling act for the purposes of the first election, the expense of this election is checked up to the Territory of Oklahoma to pay. The Oklahoma election law reads:

The Territorial Board of Election Commissioners shall from time to time certify to the auditor of the territory the necessary expense of preparing and distributing of ballots and stamps, and the auditor shall audit and issue his warrant for the same, which shall be paid out of any funds in the territorial treasury not otherwise appropriated."

Under the decision the constitution has ample authority to supply the election machinery in the newly created counties of Indian Territory, as well as in the new counties of Oklahoma. In all probability, upon convening next week, the convention will, by ordinance divide the new counties into municipal townships and three commissioner districts. The municipal township bears the same relation as a justice of the peace precinct. The convention's original plan was for the supreme election board created by the ordinance to appoint county election boards, but as the court expressed a doubt as to the legality of such appointment delegated to other authority, the convention, in remodeling the election ordinance will probably name such boards, two members to be Democratic and one Republican. These boards will divide the counties into election boards already existing in the old Oklahoma counties under the decision remain undisturbed. There are forty-nine new counties in the state.

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Barton has announced his appointment of members of the City Council's several standing committees. The personnel of these committees is printed below. It would be well for citizens to preserve a copy to refer to; so that often when having business with the council they can save time and trouble by going directly to the chairman of the proper committee.

The committees are composed as follows.

Cemetery, Sanitary and City Park.—J. T. Conn chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Sutton.

Finance.—W. C. Lee chairman, T. J. Chambliss and M. D. Timberlake.

Fire.—R. T. Kerr chairman, W. H. Markham and J. T. Conn.

Lights.—J. T. Sutton chairman, R. T. Kerr and J. T. Conn.

Ordinance.—T. J. Chambliss chairman, M. D. Timberlake and W. C. Lee. Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks.—M. D. Timberlake chairman, J. T. Sutton and A. J. Deaton.

Water.—W. H. Markham chairman, A. J. Deaton and W. C. Lee.

Police, Enforcement of Ordinances and Impeachment.—A. J. Deaton chairman, M. D. Timberlake and T. J. Chambliss.

The committee last named is a newly created one, whose duty, as indicated, is to exercise a supervision over the enforcement of the city's laws and to prefer charges against any official guilty of neglect of duty or malfeasance or misfeasance in office. The city attorney is made a member of this committee, as he is of the ordinance committee.

WEAVER AT ARDMORE BOOSTS THE CONVENTION

Carlton Weaver of Ada, delegate to the constitutional convention, was in the city yesterday and upon being interrogated by a Democrat reporter in regard to the ratification of the constitution said:

"When the people of Oklahoma read the constitution in its entirety it will need no advocate. That constitution embodied every principle that the masses require and demanded, and when the vote is taken it will be found to be practically unanimous in its favor. There are a few sore heads that are opposed to it in the Republican ranks, (and be it said to the credit of the Republican party they are mighty few) from the simple reason that it is a Democratic document written by Democrats. Had the Republicans been in the majority they would have swallowed anything that might have been written without a protest. The Republicans themselves regard the Asp constitution as a joke, and when the time comes for a vote on the present constitution as written, you will find the real influential Republicans, with a few exceptions, heartily in favor of adopting it in its entirety.

"They accuse us of breaking faith with our constituents by leaving out the 'Jim Crow' clause without fully understanding the situation, or the pressure that was brought to bear for its rejection from the constitution. That will be adjusted to the entire satisfaction of the whole state at the first session of the legislature."

Mr. Weaver was non-committal in regard to state politics, and being an old newspaper man himself, the reporter refrained from pressing the subject. He said, however, that there would be less than one hundred votes polled against the adoption of the constitution in Pontotoc county.—Ardmore Democrat.

Davison for Justice.

George Davidson announces, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, for justice of the peace for the municipal township that shall include Ada.

Mr. Davidson is a native of the Old Dominion, was reared in Arkansas, and six years ago he moved to the Territory. His good judgment is shown by his coming straight to Ada where he engaged for several years in the mechanic's trade. Latterly he has conducted a second hand and repairing establishment on South Broadway.

A man of modesty and reserve, he dislikes to talk of himself; but there are a number of Ada's leading citizens who knew Mr. Davidson away back in Arkansas, and they will vouch for him strong. However, he scarcely needs that, for he is well known and esteemed in Ada. A Democrat, he is one of the staunch simon pure type.

Mr. Davidson is not without experience in public affairs. Besides, he has a wide experience with men and business matters, has deep convictions about what is just and unjust, in fact is a man of such balance and mature judgment as make him superior material for a good magistrate. The News commends him to the voters of this community for a full consideration of his claims.

House Burned Near Egypt.

W. P. Hopkins, of near Egypt, had the misfortune to lose his house and most of the contents Wednesday night by fire, which caught from the cook stove. His kind neighbors are busy building him another house to live in.

Cured of Rheumatism.

Mr. Wm. Henry of Chattanooga, Tenn., had rheumatism in his left arm. "The strength seemed to have gone out of the muscles so that it was useless for work," he says. "I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and wrapped the arm in flannel at night, and to my relief I found that the pain gradually left me and the strength returned. In three weeks the rheumatism had disappeared and has not since returned." If troubled with rheumatism try a few applications of Pain Balm. You are certain to be pleased with the relief which it affords. For sale by G. M. Ramsey.

THAW CASE GOES TO JURY--- MISTRIAL SEEMS PROBABLE

New York, April 11.—Charged with the responsibility of deciding the fate of Harry K. Thaw, the jury which since January 23 has been sitting in judgment on the young slayer of Stanford White retired at 9:17 p. m. yesterday to begin the consideration of their verdict. Six hours later they had failed to reach an agreement, and shortly after 11 o'clock they were locked up for the night in the jury room of the criminal courts building.

Justice Fitzgerald, who had been waiting for some word from the jury room, became convinced at that hour that the chances of receiving a verdict last night were too remote to warrant his waiting up any later. It was said that when Justice Fitzgerald's inquiry was received at the court house the officers on duty there put the matter up to the jurors themselves, asking if there was any possibility of a verdict within the next few hours. The reply was strongly negative. The jury was said to be almost hopelessly divided and nobody connected with the case last night would venture the hope of anything better than a disagreement as the climax of the long drawn out trial.

In the life of Harry Thaw this day will go down as the most trying he has ever experienced. From the opening of court until the jury retired the fates dealt unmercifully with him. Beginning with District Attorney Jerome's final argument and throughout the judge's charge Thaw had to listen to a scathing attack upon his character and to a narrative drawn from the evidence which meant to strip his deeds of the halo of chivalric glory which his own attorney had thrown about them.

Huddleston for Representative.

The News is authorized to announce Frank Huddleston, of near Ada, as a candidate for representative of Pontotoc county in the legislature of Oklahoma.

Frank Huddleston was born near Pauls Valley, I. T., January 31, 1879. He lived there until he was eight years of age, when his parents sent him to Lawrence, Kansas, where he attended school for three years. In the meantime his parents removed to what is now Allen, I. T., where Frank attended the public schools until his father's death, after which for two years he and his brother-in-law, C. W. Floyd, engaged in the mercantile business.

Eighteen months ago he moved from Allen to his farm near Ada. Having lived at Allen sixteen years he has a host of friends there and many of them were solicitous that he make this race.

Mr. Huddleston has lived on a farm all of his life except three years when he was at school. Being a farmer himself, his interests are identical with the farmers' interests.

"The New York Tribune indulges in a few slurs that are unworthy of a paper whose proprietor holds a high official position. It would not be fair to hold Ambassador Reid accountable for what a snobbish editorial employee says, but it is strange any editor with brains enough to secure employment should so forget the courtesy due from the Tribune to the men entrusted by their constituents with the important work of framing a state constitution. The Tribune says that 'the Oklahoma convention was full of cornfield lawyers,' and as if it was intoxicated by the sound of the phrase it repeats it saying: 'The cornfield jurists thought it wiser or the whole to wait until the state was organized and exploit their nostrums in the halls of the state legislature.' The whole editorial is written in flippant vein and reveals the contempt in which the editor holds these men chosen by the people of the new state to form their organic law. The editor does not know what the constitution contains, that, he admits, 'will be disclosed only when the full text reaches the public,' but he does not have to see the constitution to be convinced that 'cornfield lawyers' are not likely to do anything wise.

"It is unfortunate that an eastern paper should be in control of a man so prejudiced against the West. That there is no ground for such prejudice goes without saying. Oklahoma was settled up by as intelligent and patriotic a class of people as can be found in the Union. No state has brighter prospects and there is every reason to believe that the constitution is drawn in accordance with the wishes of the citizens.

"If the Oklahoma convention had been filled with Depews and Platts the Tribune's editor would be gushing over their statesmanship, but as the delegates owe their places to the farmers rather than to the railroads, they are dubbed 'cornfield lawyers.' How long will the country lawyers, physicians, and the cross-road storekeepers continue to take their political instruction from men whose ears, like the ears of the Tribune's editor, are trained to catch the slightest pulsations of a pocket book? How long will the 'cornfield lawyers' follow the lead of the trust-fed attorneys and the corporation controlled editors."

A SQUAWK FROM NEW YAWK.

Strange it takes the Old East so long to come to an understanding of the New West. So limited is the horizon of many easterners that they appear to think civilization still hults at the banks of the Mississippi; that beyond reign the barbarian and the boor. The West is bigger and better and more generous than the East. The West has quit laughing at the tenderfoot. This notwithstanding it takes your man of the East much longer to adjust himself to trans-Mississippi environments than it does your man of the plains to recover his composure in New York.

William J. Bryan severely takes to task the New York Tribune for its coarse attempt to ridicule Oklahoma's constitutional convention. Whether the Times' attack be attributable to abysmal ignorance of Western statesmanship or to a reckless, unreasoning partisanship, here is the way The Commoner defends Oklahoma against the criticism:

"The New York Tribune indulges in a few slurs that are unworthy of a paper whose proprietor holds a high official position. It would not be fair to hold Ambassador Reid accountable for what a snobbish editorial employee says, but it is strange any editor with brains enough to secure employment should so forget the courtesy due from the Tribune to the men entrusted by their constituents with the important work of framing a state constitution. The Tribune says that 'the Oklahoma convention was full of cornfield lawyers,' and as if it was intoxicated by the sound of the phrase it repeats it saying: 'The cornfield jurists thought it wiser or the whole to wait until the state was organized and exploit their nostrums in the halls of the state legislature.'

The whole editorial is written in flippant vein and reveals the contempt in which the editor holds these men chosen by the people of the new state to form their organic law. The editor does not know what the constitution contains, that, he admits, 'will be disclosed only when the full text reaches the public,' but he does not have to see the constitution to be convinced that 'cornfield lawyers' are not likely to do anything wise.

"It is unfortunate that an eastern paper should be in control of a man so prejudiced against the West. That there is no ground for such prejudice goes without saying. Oklahoma was settled up by as intelligent and patriotic a class of people as can be found in the Union. No state has brighter prospects and there is every reason to believe that the constitution is drawn in accordance with the wishes of the citizens.

"If the Oklahoma convention had been filled with Depews and Platts the Tribune's editor would be gushing over their statesmanship, but as the delegates owe their places to the farmers rather than to the railroads, they are dubbed 'cornfield lawyers.' How long will the country lawyers, physicians, and the cross-road storekeepers continue to take their political instruction from men whose ears, like the ears of the Tribune's editor, are trained to catch the slightest pulsations of a pocket book? How long will the 'cornfield lawyers' follow the lead of the trust-fed attorneys and the corporation controlled editors?"

IT'S JUST AS WELL, PERHAPS.

It seems that Republican Oklahoma court has invalidated the supreme election board created by the constitutional convention, which will put the first election under the supervision of Governor Frantz and two other federal appointees. Well, we had hoped to have this election and the canvass of returns in good old Democratic hands; but, then, last fall with the Republicans in control of the election machinery we nevertheless managed to do pretty well—raked in about everything in sight, merely missing a dozen districts or so. It would be brutal to wish to get more than we got before. So let the Republicans have the painful honor of counting the Democrats in again.

Gymnastics alone can never give that elasticity, ease and graceful figure which comes by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 36 cents, Tea or Tablets. G. M. Ramsey.

A Woman Tells How to Relieve Rheumatic Pains.

I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked.—Mrs. SARA A. COLE, 140 S. New St., Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale by G. M. Ramsey.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is in arrears overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will ultimately have no bank account.

WHY PROPOSAL WAS SUDDEN.

One Thing That Fond Youth Had Taken No Thought For.

"This is so sudden!" As he heard the girl speak these words the astonished young man rose to his feet in bewilderment. "Sudden?" he repeated. "Did I hear aright? More than two years ago, I believe it was, since I first met you. For several months after that I only saw you occasionally; then gradually, very gradually, I increased my visits. It took six months to get on a formal calling basis; it took six months more to be a regular visitor; six months more to call you by your Christian name; and it is only during the last few months that I have ventured, with many misgivings, even to hold your hand. And now, after all this gradual development of my love, you tell me that my declaration is so sudden. Do you call this sudden?" "I do, indeed," she replied calmly. "But for what reason?" The young lady replied, with some degree of hauteur: "Simply this: I hardly imagined you would dare to speak to me like this for another two years at least, considering your present salary."

As Far as He Could Go.

In his infant breast, possibly, he is cherishing the hope that he will eventually reach the age when "the fellers will call him Bill," but at the present time he has "just turned two," and Willie is a conventionalist of no mean attainments for his years. The other day he was taken out visiting, and, among other things, was called upon to "count the cars of a freight train." He was compelled to rely upon his memory, but "counting the cars" is a favorite daily occupation as they pass within sight of the windows of his home. This is the way he did it: "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve."

The Worth of Nurses.

Contrasting his Indian experiences with those in South Africa, Field Marshal Lord Roberts said that for the first two or three months of the siege of Delhi not a single case of amputation survived, and at Lucknow the death statistics were very similar. In fact, it would hardly be possible to describe what the wounded and sick suffered during the Indian campaign from the overpowering heat, the swarm of insects, the stench, the lack of surgical and medical treatment and the want of proper nursing. During the South African war totally different state of affairs prevailed, and the presence of trained nurses contributed to the difference.

Fables of Letter Writers.

The London Chronicle wants to know how you date your letters. If they are dated at all or which of the many ways appeals to an individual's taste or laziness. There are some persons who do not take the trouble to date their letters at all, and the Chronicle is brutal enough to add "they are mostly women." Who does not receive letters with signatures that beat the Dutch for illegibility? Or, perhaps with no address, no date, and the signature "that would puzzle an archangel and split a granite machine." But the worst of it is so many people rejoice in their illegible signature! It lends an air of distinction to the basest missive.

A One-Armed Life Saver.

One of the life savers along the Delaware river front is Paul Greenwood, now a resident of Chester. Greenwood lost an arm and a leg several years ago, but despite this misfortune he continues at his work of saving lives of people who fall overboard. Not long ago he saw five Philadelphians struggling in the water off Marcus Hook, their yacht having capsized. He jumped into a boat and hurried to the scene of the upset yacht and saved all of the members of the party, most of whom were women.

SOME SEASONABLE STYLES

So often the spring season is so short that it seems as if the heat of summer follows immediately after the intense cold of midwinter, and then the weather seems to be quite necessary, as there is really so little time to wear it, but the well dressed woman has no chance for exceptional occasions, it provides her with a sort of costume of light weight keeping it from the sun; when such a suit will be exactly the correct thing to wear.

Sherry cloth may do well, although the light weight black cloth gown made in some fine design even in the creases in them length bands of silk trimmed with lines of the narrow braid are another fashion and often the silk band with the dark braid is used in preference to the thin colors, but this is again one of the details to be solved by individual taste.

Waists to match the skin are again the most fashionable this spring, but almost invariably is there a short coat or wrap to be worn with the gown. This is on the order of the skirt with a long shoulder effect.

In addition to the shade and lace curtains such curtains are always useful as well as attractive.

If plain white is desired there is nothing prettier or so dainty as dotted net. Or if a bright effect is desired select an Indian silk stripe with plenty of yellow and red in it.

A sun pan filled with maidenhair fern or even a common woodfern will make a beautiful window ornament and may also be used for centerpiece on the dining table.

If there is a window seat it should harmonize with the sash curtains. It may be a seat without flounces or may be a box used as a handy receptacle for putting away gowns.

The cushion and flounces may be made of tapestry, the former being stuffed with sea moss and buttoned.

If a cheaper material is desired denim may be utilized and it should be filled with excelsior.

As to the pillows that make the window attractive one can not have too many of them.

If the window still is broad enough one may have a box of bulbs in the winter, they can be set away at night so that the frost will not nip them.

Sometimes one is unfortunate in having a window which opens on to a floor from which there is an unpleasant outlook.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY WINDOW.

Center of Attraction in Living Room
Needs Artistic Touch.

There is always a particular window in the living room that is the center of attraction and it usually commands a view of the street. If the window is large and of clear glass or even if the panes are small it may be made attractive with a very small expenditure of time and money if one has ingenuity.

In addition to the shade and lace curtains such curtains are always useful as well as attractive.

TO REMOVE IRON MOLD

Lemon Juice and Salt Can Be Trusted to Eradicate It

This stain is usually caused by metal coming into contact with rust or by ink. To remove it, sprinkle the stain with lemon juice, salt, and water, let it stand and repeat this until the stain has gone. If the above remedy fails, dip the stain into boiling water and rub it with salts of lemon using a rag for the purpose.

Then hold the stain over a cup or basin and pour a stream of boiling water through. The article should be well rinsed and washed to remove all traces of the salts which will then wash away the material. This last remedy must not be tried with colored fabrics of a monochromatic color. If colored material is stained with iron oxide, the only remedy is lemon juice and this must be used cautiously as it destroys some colors.

Good Butter

It is not every woman who knows what good butter really is. In how many establishments that pride themselves on their cuisine has not one met with poor and tasteless butter only butter even with a touch of garlic which gives a flavor to all the cooking and the cakes. The yellow butter of the ordinary hotel is a thing to shudder at, not to eat. Butter factories and separators have long much toward bringing a sound quality with in the reach of many people, but with the continual report on butter to force us with its soothing comments on the prevalence of certain butter diseases of maggot and bad or the use of boracic acid and one apprehends the security of first rate butter. A new salve made in the old fashioned way though it must be owned it is not easy to obtain and costs little is quite pure.

Chicken in Rice Cups

This is a delicious dish or luncheon dish and also is an economical way of using small quantity of rice. To prepare it take small buttoned cups with soft boiled rice half filled in the bottom. Fill the center with cooked chicken finely minced delicately seasoned and slightly moistened with cream or a dash of chicken broth. A few chopped scallions added to the chicken fill the flavor. Onion juice and more delicacy may be added if you like. Cover the top with a layer of rice and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Then invert the cup carefully on a heated platter and serve at once with my preferred sauce.

Way of Using Worn Blankets

Take an old blanket and wash clean. If frayed at top, cut out a strip about two inches wide and lay thin pieces of white cloth at five cents a yard, about eight yards being required according to size of blanket. Sew up both ends after cutting them the right length and cover both sides of blanket with red or white yarn and button hole the edges also.

You will find it a grand quilt being soft, warm and light weight also easy to wash and will stay in place better than batting.

For Silverware

For silverware use sweet oil and white cloth with a hand cloth laid down firmly to about eight inches in the ground, is a very good style. Another desirable form of walking skirt has stitched strapings covering the spaces and extra plats let in the lower part of each gore, this skirt is best made unlined. For a very tall woman a double skirt is not unfashionable. It made with a deep point front and back cut up only at the sides. Another desirable form of walking skirt has stitched strapings covering the spaces and extra plats let in the lower part of each gore, this skirt is best made unlined. For a very tall woman a double skirt is not unfashionable. It made with a deep point front and back cut up only at the sides.

For more dressy gowns trains are indispensable. The conceit on the princess cut is most graceful and this also is seen made with a slanted underskirt the top part deeply pointed and back as just described.

For a Gore Train

An excellent method of making gowns is made by adding with a tablespoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of soda mixed in equal quantities to a quart of water. To insure a speedy recovery the skirt should be well passed several times daily with the mixture.

tion, but would like to see the man who could convince her."

Now we come to the middle class, who are respectable in every sense. Their houses are spotless, their clothes always neat, their glossy black hair well washed and tidy. These have time to visit and possess at least a shower bath in the house, so they are not obliged to resort to a stream or convenient spigot on the street for the comfort of a bath. They can permit themselves the luxury of a cambric and perhaps a caraboo whose milk is peddled in picturesque jars by some male member of the family. They will take in a little sewing and fine embroidery. They are very expert with the needle and fond of jewelry and not a few possess some quite pretty pieces of pearls or diamonds quaintly cut.

Perhaps the first peep at the high-born ladies of the land would not be amiss on the Luneta which was so beautiful in the evening light. There was the band with our great warships against the gorgeous coloring of the setting sun on one side the picturesque wall of old Manila with its heavy gates and meat fort and entrenchments on the other. While the band played in the plaza where seats were provided for multitudes and every nationality was represented, many varieties of vehicles drove around and down for a mile where one turned in a small circle around the Andal monument returning between cocoanuts and palms to the music and the crowd.

There one met ones friends and acquaintances, looking upon mestizos, negroes and Filipino belles and enjoyed like the unique scene and delicious whiff of the sea. The mestizos are perhaps the prettiest. They have clear, rich, brown skins, soft, dark eyes and black hair which is very shiny but very becoming. The full blooded Filipino is darker and often very handsome. No infrequently one recognizes the small even pretty features which proclaim an Indian ancestor and admires the grace which seems to belong peculiarly to the people of that interesting country.

I formed several pleasant personal friendships with these women visiting them in their homes and inviting them to mine. Upon more than one occasion when an interpreter could not be obtained I was brave enough to venture close to make social calls on some of the very limited knowledge of English on one hand and most ignorant Spanish on the other. I have always been told by my old timer that it was a good idea to be as simple as possible in greeting customers.

Once one of our favorite American ladies was stationed no far from Manila, destined to give a social touch toward cementing the friendship and good fellowship between the two nations and with this end in view asked an army woman to bring a party up to his head quarters for a few days' visit. Upon their arrival the general gave a reception to which all the principal people of the town were invited. They returned the hospitality promptly and cordially, thereby promoting much pleasant intercourse.

Among the Filipino ladies there was one who will ever hold an memorable place in the memory of the party, so bright and pretty was she, so quick at repartee and altogether fascinating. In one of the occasions when they were all together I do not remember now what gave rise to it, her black eyes with flashed fire as she said:

"But you will never conquer me. You may go on bringing your soldiers to fight us—millions of them—but you will not conquer us. Then at the most tragic moment she cried: "In spite of you, we shall be free."

It was like a bombshell in the midst of those mild, amiable, peaceable assemblies.

An American woman stepped up to her quickly but quietly, gently took off the dark bands in her hair and smiled in her eyes as she answered:

"My dear, we men want to bring you to our home."

"We want to conquer you with love."

With a low bow with a smile of grace and the prettiest smile of the world in her face.

As the Americans were starting back to Manila in the middle of the social wishes expressed on both sides, waving of handkerchiefs, smiles and voices, the pretty girl with twinkling eyes and smiling voice called out:

"Adjust! Adjust! Poco tiempo—boom-boom."

And everybody laughed. Notwithstanding this unwise effort for prestige, the friendly relations and friendships formed between the kind and friendly Filipinos were established.
